Once upon a time there was a robber who was thinking of stealing the recipe of his favorite ice cream from the royal ice cream parlor at the royal castle.

A beautiful princess worked there just for her own pleasure and prepared many delicious flavors: stracciatella, cherry, strawberry, apple, coffee and more.

The princess got frightened and shouted for help. Otherwise I will call the vampire and he will bite you!”

The king called out: “Let go of the princess, now!"

As soon as the king called for him, the vampire appeared. He was dressed in a wide, brown cape and bit the robber in the neck.

Here upon the robber transformed into a miniature elephant.
The vampire got frightened of the little elephant and immediately changed it into a pig.

In the meantime the princess ran back to her royal residence for safety and the king instructed the royal cook to take care of the pig.

The royal cook caught the pig, hit it with his wooden spoon, chopped it up into little pieces and tossed them into a big pot to cook pork soup.

Oh, what a miracle!

In the steaming soup the pig changed into a cat.

The cat jumped out of the pot and ran to the princess' royal residence.

The princess loved the cute kitty cat and took it in.

On the same evening the princess gently caressed the cat and kissed it.

Suddenly, the young handsome robber stood in front of her. The kiss had changed the cat back to being the robber. The two of them fell in love, stayed together at the castle...

...and lived happily ever after.